Obesity

support

Because we know she's trying her best...

Managing weight isn't easy. Did you know that after losing weight, the body actually fights to put the lost pounds back on? Care that respects the person, with lifestyle changes, medicines or even surgery, is important for long-term weight management and health. Not everyone gets that. That's why we believe in joining advocates to reduce weight bias, empowering people with obesity and expanding access to support, long-term treatment and care. Together, we're changing how the world sees, prevents and treats obesity.
